Sixteen Teams With 3-0 Records At The Halfway Point Of The Tournament

Close Races In Several Divisions Make The Runs Allowed Category Very Important

By Tom Prendergast
At the midway point of the pool play games, more than 85% of all the teams still have a shot at qualifying for the playoffs. Today's game will be very important to most teams chances. In weeks one and two of this years World Series, several teams found out the hard way that the number of runs they allowed could (and did) make a difference in their teams advancing to the playoffs. The first tie-breaking category after head-to-head is runs allowed and all wildcard teams that finish with the same record are selected based on least runs allowed. It is incredibly important for all team mangers to make sure that their runs allowed (as posted in the Daily News and on Scorebook.com) is correct.

If your team is playing in a participation division it's important to make sure that the correct number of players are getting at least one at-bat per game. Only players who participate in pool play games may play during the playoffs and championships on Friday and Saturday. The awards banquet will be held on Saturday night at the Rustler's Rooste.
