2 Single Elimination Games Today — Last Teams Standing Play Saturday Participation Guidelines Dropped For 7 Inning Games In Central Today

By Tom Prendergast

The second season begins today with round one of the playoffs. This is the bonus round in which winning is the only way to keep playing. After six games in four days, pitching depth takes center stage for most teams. This year's even parity among the teams in the 38+/48+/58+ divisions could mean trouble for teams looking past their first round opponent. Because the Central division playoff teams are only playing seven inning games (they have three rounds scheduled today), the player participation rule requiring every player on the roster to have at least one at bat in each game will be waived. Pre-game meetings at home plate before today's games will be extremely important for both teams.

In case of a any problems today, a member of the MSBL World Series office staff will be on hand to resolve the dispute. If a WS office representative cannot be located at the field, please contact the office directly by phone at (602) 438-0242.
