26 Players Have Attended All Twenty MSBL World Series Tournaments

By Tom Prendergast

Thirty-eight teams participated in the first MSBL World Series in 1988. Out of that number, twenty-six (26) players have attended every MSBL World Series since that time. So what are the odds of a player participating in all twenty years, pretty slim. Consider that during that time roughly 70,000 players have attended. Here's a list of those players.

MSBL / MABL World Series Internet Broadcast Becoming Popular

Website Hits Indicate Approximately 2000+ Listener's On Average Day!

By Tom Prendergast

Over the years the MSBL / MABL World Series has seen several innovations to help keep players informed about the tournament. The first version of the World Series newsletter was presented on legal paper in the form of a memorandum. It included a cover page with a short message from President and Editor, Steve Sigler. On page two was a blank game reporting form that asked the teams return to the office no later than 30 minutes after the game. Also included was a line score from each game. Five years later the tournament used the novelty shop located inside Tempe Diablo Stadium to update standings boards all day long. In 1998 the MSBL / MABL introduced the World Series Daily News. In 2003 we started putting the Daily News on the internet, and along with Scorebook.com, we were posting scores in real time.

Fast forward to this year, our twentieth World Series in Arizona. During this years event the WS staff is now offering to e-mail every player a color copy of the Daily News directly to them each day. Players and managers can access Scorebook.com at the field with their cell phones or blackberry's. In addition to that, each day Monday through Thursday, the WS staff is broadcasting a game live from Tempe Diablo Stadium, direct to your computer through a streaming web cast accessible from the MSBL National Website. If you miss the webcast or happen to be playing in the game you can enjoy reliving the entire game by simply accessing the archived audio. You can also order a CD of any archived game. MSBL webcast play by play announcer Joel Becker provides the talent and technical knowledge to bring the webcast games to anyone on the internet anywhere in the world.
