Central Participation Rules In Place For Playoffs And Championships

During the pool play round, all Central division teams are required to get at least 15 players an at-bat during a nine inning game. However that rule is waived when the playoff round requires a team to play more than two games in one day. This year some of the 45+ Central division teams will be playing three games on Friday so all of these playoff games will be 7 innings. The 35+ Central division however will only be playing two games.

Teams Scramble To Qualify For Playoff Berth On Final Day

45+ Mountain division Chicago Fire pitcher Richie Pettrillo picked up the 7-1 win over the Oregon Donors yesterday on Tempe field # 1. Tempe Diablo Stadium is in the background.

Friday's Playoff Hopes For Some Teams Will Depend On Runs Allowed

Scorebook.com Keeps Teams Up To Date With Real Time Game Results

By Tom Prendergast

Over the years at the MSBL and MABL World Series, teams finishing with a 5-1 record could usually expect to be a division winner or at the very least, end up in second. Last week in 45+ Central division 2, four teams finished with identical records of 5-1. Two of the teams ended up with identical runs allowed totals of 17, the third allowed 18 and the fourth team 35. So for the first time ever, a 5-1 team ended up as a wildcard. History has a way of repeating itself, more often than not.

A quick look at the standings on page 3 and it's pretty clear that several teams could end up with the same records and points. At the managers meeting last Sunday night, the WS staff handed out information to each manager which details the tie-breaking process. Listed on a separate page — Tie Breaker Situations. It states that after points (2 for a win, 1 for a tie) the first tie breaker will always be head-to-head competition. If this does not break the tie, the team with the least runs allowed will advance. Where wildcard qualifiers contend for playoff status, only runs allowed will dictate playoff-qualifying status. In the unlikely event of a tie in runs allowed, total runs scored will be used to determine the team that advances.

So as a precaution before your teams games today, it might be a good idea for all managers to go over their scores again and double check them to make sure that your totals match the ones listed in both the newsletter and scorebook.com. If they don't, please call the WS office and let them know that your team has a discrepancy so we can correct it before its too late.
