MSBL World Series Playoffs Begin Today For 35+ / 45+ / 55+ Teams

By Tom Prendergast

The 2007 MSBL World Series enters the final playoff round today as teams in the 35+ / 45+ and 55+ divisions begin a single loss elimination format. There's literally no tomorrow for teams that don't keep on winning today. To be eligible to participate in today's playoffs a player must have participated in a pool play game during the week and had at least one plate appearance. In addition, any protests must be decided on the spot, no waiting until the game is over, unless it's regarding a player who participates in the game. All players must provide a photo id (normally a valid US driver's license) when asked by the umpire for proof of age.

On Saturday, nine different MSBL championship games will be played at the Tempe Diablo Complex. Earlier in the week the 45+ National championship game was moved from 1:00p to 9:30a at Tempe Diablo Stadium. It was originally switched with the 35+ Continental game but several teams had already made travel arrangements that couldn't be moved, so the game will remain at 9:30a on Tempe # 5. As a result of these moves, the 55+ American championship game will be moved to Tempe Diablo Stadium at 1:30p.

The annual MSBL World Series award banquet will be held on Saturday night, starting at 6:30p at the Rustler's Rooste. Former MLB Dodger player Wes Parker will be the speaker.
