World Series Daily News TV Show Attracting Large Numbers Of Viewers

By Tom Prendergast

Back in January, MVP Athletics entrepreneur Vic Puglisi pitched the idea of a "live" daily Sports Center type show to Steve Sigler at the Palm Springs tournament, as something really special for the 25th Anniversary of the MSBL World Series in Arizona. At the time he had no idea how much work or what kind of issues would come with it. After one week, he's now fully aware of what it's like to produce a daily TV show! Despite a power outage, personnel issues, data transfer limitations, and all kinds of tricky audio problems, executive producer, Vic Puglisi and son Mike are pulling off one of the greatest marketing innovations the MSBL World Series has ever seen. The shows co-hosts arrive early each day and decide what games they are going to film highlights from and conduct player interviews in and around the Tempe Diablo Complex. Originally the show was going to be a "live" broadcast, but the complex issues involved were just too great to overcome, so the show is taped and posted to the national website every morning. Stay tuned for more MSBL WS highlights from Joel and Amber.

MSBL / MABL WS Spotlight on:
Frank Cramer (18+ Dutch Tigers)

When Don George began coaching and teaching baseball in the Netherlands, he became good friends with Frank Cramer. Frank's two sons were coming to Arizona to play with a Dutch team, the Holland Twins, and both were talented players. Frank now coaches a level three team in Europe (HSCM Maastricht), and sons Mitchell and Maikel Berghmans play in division one. "Baseball is a way of life for the whole family" is how Frank describes their life overseas. With Yolanda Soudant for 19 years, they are thankful to Don and others who have been eager to share the intricacies of baseball with them, including all they learn during their stay in Arizona each time they come to the World Series. Frank is especially grateful for the compliments they have received from other teams when they have played well, and especially when they have won. The Boston Red Sox are Frank's favorite team, so he is familiar with both the frustration of being good but not good enough to be a champion, and persevering enough to actually bring that championship home. We welcome our friends from Holland once again!

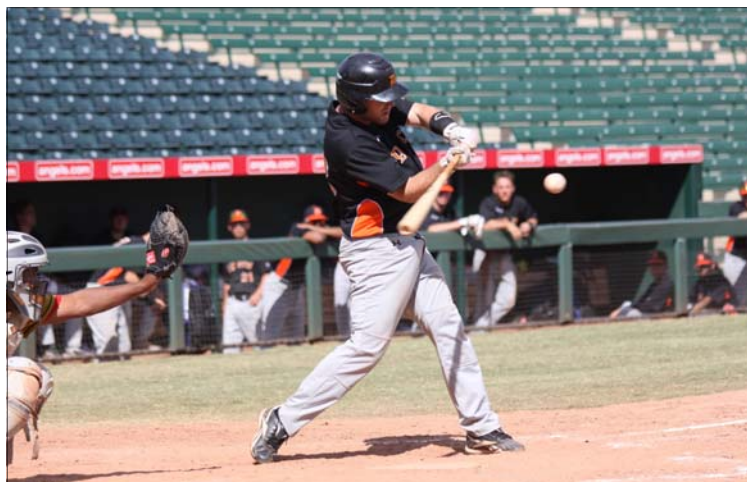

MSBL / MABL WS Spotlight on:
Mitchell Berghman (18+ Dutch Tigers)

When you are a left handed pitcher in the next to highest level of baseball in your country, one of your goals is to play in a major tournament in the international home of baseball, the USA. Dutch pitcher Mitchell Berghmans has been involved in MSBL since 2008, and makes the cross Atlantic trip to the desert every two years to test his skills against the top 18+ talent in Arizona at the MSBL World Series. An avid Mets fan, Mitchell saw his pitching skills leap to another level when he learned the pickoff move perfected by Don George and made it a signature part of his game. In the last game of the 2010 18+ Open Division, his manager called on him with two outs, runner on first in the seventh inning. His only instruction: "Pick that guy off." With a quick, positive response to his skipper's request, he approached the dugout to hear "So, do you want to pitch?" And the 24 year old from Overgangsklasse, Netherlands became the pitcher of record. Mitchell and his younger brother, Maikel make the trip to Arizona together, and they both share a passion for baseball with their father, Frank. For the Berghman's, baseball is a big part of their family!
