MSBL / MABL World Series Spotlight On Matt Gionta (25+ Philadelphia Stars)

Sometimes baseball provides us the opportunity to appreciate what we have in our life, and admire the character that others reveal when facing life and death challenges. Matt Gionta has been playing in the Greater Philadelphia, PA MABL for seven years, managing the Comets for six. After attending the Fall Classic, his team has made five consecutive trips to the World Series, playing in the 2009 championship game. This Temple University and Phillies fan has been married to his wife, Rachel for four years, and appreciates how spending a concentrated week at a major tournament helps players really get to know others in their league, thus strengthening the ties between teams at home. He recalls how Bret Binder helped them advance to that 09 finals by pitching back to back complete games, throwing 309 pitches. With only 9 players on their roster, every guy had to give all he could, and that experience taught them the value of a large roster for a tournament. Matt's hero in baseball is Chase Jones, former University of North Carolina player who fought, and beat cancer. Chase now raises funds for pediatric cancer research through the BaseBald Program for the St. Baldrick's Foundation. He would encourage everyone to check this out at: <http://www.stbaldricks.org/events/BaseBald/>. Our love for the game is appropriately put into perspective when we meet people like Chase Jones, and Matt Gionta recognizes the value that one man's life struggles can have to encourage and inspire others.

World Series Daily News TV Show Set To Begin Broadcasting Games

First "Live" Telecast Will Be Tomorrow at 12:30p (Pre game show starts at 12:15p)
By Tom Prendergast

The first live broadcast of an MSBL / MABL WS game will be Thursday October 25th, from Tempe Diablo Stadium. It will be a Father / Son Central game between the San Diego Blue Jays and the Tri Valley Giants. Joel Becker will be handling the play-by-play while his Daily News TV show co-host, Amber Baletto will be conducting interviews from the dugouts. The MVP Media production crew has been working overtime to make this game as much like a regular telecast as possible. They will be using 6 different cameras for the broadcast, along with the ump cam (which will be attached to the home plate umpires mask).

Today marks the final day of pool play games for the 55+ teams and for several teams the playoffs have already started. Once again the ever important, runs allowed category is more than likely going to determine a playoff spot for some teams. And on Thursday, the MSBL WS Trade Show gets under way at Tempe Diablo Stadium at 1:00p in the afternoon.
