MSBL / MABL World Series Spotlight on

Dohrman Sinclair (65+ Arizona Scorpions)

Twelve years ago, Dohrman Sinclair wasn't thinking about playing baseball, he was still recovering from 6 heart by-pass operations. But eight years ago a friend told him about an adult baseball league and since that time he's been a big part of the MSBL in Arizona. Married to his wife, Patti, they have four children. When he's not playing baseball he's at his office where he specializes in estate planning, trusts, insurance and investments. He's certainly enjoyed the MSBL and has started 3 teams, a 60+, 65+ and last year a 70+ team. His main goal remains allusive, but hopefully attainable and that's to win a WS ring!

Runs Allowed Category Always Important For Playoff Qualifying Teams Teams Spending $50 On A Possible Protest Isn't Always Money Well Spent!

By Tom Prendergast

Halfway through this years MSBL / MABL World Series one thing hasn't changed. Teams that allow the fewest runs are normally the ones that advance to the playoffs. While head to head matchups are important, in some of the bigger divisions all of the teams don't play each other so runs allowed is used as the tie breaker. Same thing with the wildcards, who usually come from a different division. As a rule of thumb, you can never have enough pitching.

While a few teams have had some success with protests, it's not like in the NFL, where the coach gets to throw the red challenge flag. Our procedure is a bit more complicated! A couple things to remember before taking out that $50 bill and handing it to the home plate umpire. A winning team cannot lodge a protest in order to achieve a 9-0 forfeit win. Only a losing team will have the opportunity to do that. And just a reminder that batting out of turn, the use of the wrong courtesy runner or failure to write down a pitcher's number on the line up card will not result in a win for the losing team. Common sense should always be your best guide.

Is This The Fastest Player At This Years World Series?

By Steve Montia, HardBall Online Executive Regional Director

First All Female Umpire Crew To Work An MSBL WS Tournament Game!

By Tom Prendergast

The MSBL World Series tournament recorded another first yesterday when two female officials worked two WS games at the Maryvale Complex.

Regina Boyd (left) from Edmonds, WA and Perry Barber (right) from New York, NY. They both did a great job and have become two of the most popular officials at this years WS!

Starts Thursday 10/24

65+ American Terre Haute Volkers batter, Jim Price watches this ball sail over the pitchers head and end up in center field for a hit.

Safe to say that 65 Express manager Herb Kneisley and field umpire Roy Guisti, didn't exactly agree on the pick off call at first base!

65+ American St Paul Saints pitcher, Dick Jacobson kept the LeHigh Valley Moondog hitters off balance with his knuckleball.

65+ American LeHigh Valley Moondogs batter, Turk Stanari crushes a triple to the center field fence yesterday on Tempe # 2.

65+ American Terre Haute Volkers batter, Del Buss bounces this ball off the plate in his teams 7-6 loss to the Arizona Scorpions.

65+ American San Antonio Broncos pitcher, Bob Bezzi delivers a pitch to the plate during his teams game against 65 Express Tuesday.
