Every year during our World Series tournament, President and founder Steve Sigler selects several deserving league presidents and managers for special recognition awards. Over the past 26 years, a dedicated group of guys (and gals) have put in a tremendous effort in organizing and running leagues as well as putting together teams to travel to regional and national tournaments. This year has certainly had a spectacular group of recipients, who have received induction into either the MSBL World Series Hall of Fame, the National MSBL Hall of Fame or the highest honor the league can bestow, the Life Time Achievement Award. All of these newly inducted members will be included on the National MSBL / MABL website with a list of their accomplishments and a photo. They represent the very best of the best and join a very elite and special club. And speaking of the website, viewership is up, way up. This is one of the busiest times of the year for the National Office, with tournaments in Arizona and Florida, so in order to stay current and informed about what's going on, the national MSBL website is the place to visit.

Noah Clark receives his World Series Hall of Fame plaque from MSBL President, Steve Sigler and grandkids (Wes and Max).

High School Teammates Reunite At The MSBL World Series

In the late 1980s, wide receiver Mark W. Smith and quarterback Joe Gay helped delivered back to back Vermont state football championships for their Bellows Falls Union High School team. After high school, Gay went on to become a civil engineer while Smith moved on to play semi-professional baseball for the Pirates. Unexpectedly, Smith and Gay met again this week for the first time in 25 years when Smith's Westchester Mets battled the Armstrong Sluggers, which is Vermont's entry to the Series. Gay now lives outside Burlington, Vermont where he works as a civil engineer for a publicly-traded company. Smith is a New York City litigator and the New York Times bestselling author of several books. While Gay's Armstrong Slugger team defeated the Westchester Mets 8-4. Smith went one for one at the plate with a line drive single to left field.
