20th Anniversary For The MSBL WS Father & Son Divisions in 2017

After Ten Years, Longtime Tournament Director Kurt Knop Steps Down In 1998
By Tom Prendergast

I attended my first MSBL WS in 1989 as a player manager for the 30+ Kansas City Royals. We went 0-6 and because of that I was available to be a volunteer complex supervisor on Friday (which was playoff day). I returned the next year and once again went 0-6 and was available again on Friday as a playoff monitor. Had my teams won I would never have been part of the WS staff. Needless to say my MSBL WS managerial career was over, but instead I became a full-time member of the WS staff. First as the UIC, then as assistant tournament director. After the 1997 WS, tournament director, Kurt Knop (who was so instrumental in the early years of the tournament) resigned. In 1998, I became the second, MSBL WS tournament director. During the summer of 1998, the MSBL was asked by the Nike

World Master games (held in Seattle, Washington) to oversee and run the baseball tournament. So my first experience as a tournament director were those games. This is where the Daily News made it's debut. I purchased a digital camera (complete with floppy disk) and with (continued on page 4)

Father & Son founder, Val Lewis with Steve Sigler in 1998 before a game.

1998 MSBL World Series (continued from page 1) Windows Publisher on my laptop, I started publishing a daily newsletter for the tournament. The first couple editions were truly “cut and paste” (and I mean with scissors and tape). Through the years as the technology has improved, the quality of the newsletters has gotten better, thank goodness! Also in 1998, the Father and Son divisions made their debut, after Val Lewis (Sacramento MSBL) suggested it to Steve Sigler. Since that time it’s been one of our most popular and growth oriented divisions. This year marks 20 years of Father and Son play. And I still hold a record as an MSBL WS manager, at 0 - 12!
