Participation Division Teams Taking A Chance By Not Batting 14

Wildcard Teams Determined Strictly By Fewest Runs Allowed - Regardless of Standings
By Tom Prendergast

Central and Cactus team manager's pay attention, please. Your inclusion in a participation division requires you to bat a minimum of 14. The only exception is if your team doesn't have 14 players when the game starts. This number is determined at the home plate meeting when the two managers exchange line-ups. It's really important that the umpires are part of this meeting and that your line up cards list who's present and just as importantly, who isn't. For example if your team only has 13 players, notifying the opposing manager will give him the opportunity to only bat 13 as well. In the playoffs, teams only have to bat 10.

Note: Wildcard teams advance on fewest runs allowed - period. Head to head play doesn't come into play when there are teams from other divisions. And it's imperative that teams check the MSBL/MABL website score page, to verify that your runs allowed are correct. It's also a good idea to text the score in from your teams games - win, lose or draw.

Jin Kim World Series Hall of Fame

Steve LaMontia, Director of Coimunications

Every year at the MSBL World Series in Arizona a Cyclone comes to town. This cyclone hails from Chicago and is an annual entry headed by this year's World Series Hall of Fame recipient Jin Kim, manager of the Chicago Cyclones from the Chicago Midwest Suburban League. Jin has been bringing the Chicago contingent to Arizona every year since 2010. Because of Kim's involvement and consistency with the MSBL World Series, MSBL Founder and President Steve Sigler has honored him with induction into the 2018 class of the MSBL World Series Hall of Fame.

"Thank you Mr. Sigler and all of the MSBL staff for making us feel important," said Kim.

"In our previous eight years coming to the World Series we have never had a winning record, yet Mr. Sigler has always personally reached out to me, just to thank me for participating and to make sure we had a good time. With the huge number of teams that attend every year, to still get that type of treatment makes the MSBL a top class organization."

Jin is a 50 year old lawyer who resides in Schaumburg, Illinois and has been involved with the 18+ Cyclones in the Midwest Suburban League since 2008. He is a catcher and outfielder and obviously gives up a few years to the youngsters, a testament to his abilities. His roots go back to the Chicago Korean League, the (continued on page 4)

Jin Kim World Series Hall of Fame

Chicago North MSBL and his current location, the Midwest Suburban League. He has also played in the Kickoff Classic in Las Vegas five times as either the manager of the Cyclones or as a player.

His Cyclones usually compete in a couple of different divisions at the World Series. "We have been competing in the MSBL World Series since 2010 in a variety of age divisions including 18, 25 and 35. Our best finish was in the final four in 2012."

Jin is married and has three children, aged 20, 10 and 7. He is also quick to add MSL president Larry Kolcz as almost a family member and someone he greatly respects. "Lawrence Kolcz has provided us with the opportunity to play ball and has developed strong working relationships with local park districts and high school programs to ensure we have the use of the best fields in our area," explained Kim. "He shows up before games, rolls up his sleeves and rakes the field, and on occasion has filled in as a player for me when I needed the help. He is the one that convinced me to go to the World Series. He said "once you go, you will be hooked." He was right. This World Series will be my ninth year in a row."

Kim continued, "One of my most memorable experiences in Arizona was watching one of my players, Sgt. Thomas Ramos play against the Wounded Warriors Amputee Softball Team a few years back and also watching the Oil Can Boyd versus Roger Clemens game at Tempe Diablo Stadium. But mostly it comes down to the opportunity to play on the pristine Major League fields and to be part of this event. That is a big deal for me."

"This award is totally unexpected and I'm not sure it is deserved but I am honored to be recognized. Thank you!"
