Father & Son Central Terre Haute Volkers pitcher, Taylor Geltis was on the mound at Tempe Diablo Stadium pitching against Team Corona. And best of all her dad was catching!

Father & Son Divisions Continue To Expand Year After Year

College Players Create Some Headaches For F/S WS Commissioner, Val Lewis

By Tom Prendergast

Yesterday at the Father and Son World Series was an incredibly special day for the Geltis family, who all play for the Terre Haute Volkers. John Geltis is the teams catcher and son, Trevor is the right fielder. Daughter, Taylor is a relief pitcher. Friday morning at Tempe Diablo Stadium, Taylor came on to pitch the 9th inning and was outstanding. Not only that but she had the opportunity to pitch to her dad. On top of that she looked like a pitcher and was zipping the ball to the plate. I'm almost certain this was the first time a F/S battery consisted of a daughter and dad.

F/S World Series commissioner, Val Lewis fields more calls and goes through several rule version each year, trying to come up with just the right balance to try and keep the different divisions competitive. It's a tough job and one that's almost impossible to make every team happy. This year's Covid-19 pandemic didn't make Val's job any easier, in fact it only made things more complicated. Since several of the Division 2 and 3 schools didn't play a season this year, technically many of these players remained eligible for the Father & Son division. But in reality, these are college level ball players, who are very talented and stand out on a field with 50 year old fathers and 70 year old grandfathers. This isn't the kind of matchup that Val had in mind when he made his rule revisions regarding player eligibility. But this year is different in so many ways, this one caught the WS staff by surprise. At least we are playing!
