New MSBL Rules and Regulations Regarding Professional Players

Stricter Enforcement With Roster 30 Minutes Before The Game Begins

By Tom Prendergast

There will be a few new rules and regulations for our 2022 MSBL/MABL World Series. One will be further clarity of any ex-professionals playing in the tournament. This information is to be disclosed on the current roster forms and submitted to the National Office, before the tournament begins. In addition, each competitive division has it's own set of rules regarding ex-professional players on how long they have been out and what was the highest level they have played. To further ensure clarity on this, each manager, at their team registration (which will be on the day before the tournament begins) will need to sign a separate form, stating he has reviewed and read the criteria for his division and has clearly stated this for any and all of the players on the submitted roster form.

Once signed and verified, the team would then be liable (to forfeit) every game that a non-disclosed ex-professional (who is not eligible in that particular division) has participated in that week. If this should be discovered and protested to the WS staff during the playoff rounds, the offending team will be removed from the playoffs. Teams must give the teams manager, a complete team roster—30 minutes prior to the start of the game. Player eligibility protests must be made before the game starts. We have also incorporated a new rule for any players who played at a professional level in Japan, Mexico, Puerto Rico and Venezuela.

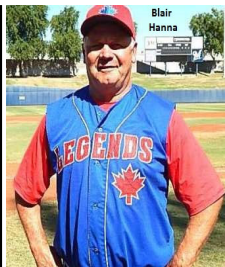

Left: The Bell Bank Park Sports Complex is the newest sports facility in the greater Phoenix area and will be hosting MSBL WS games.

Blair Hanna MSBL World Series Veteran

By Steve LaMontia, Director of Communications

Blair Hanna hails from Red Deer, Canada, which is in the Alberta Province, just across the Montana border and halfway between Calgary and Edmonton. He is also the manager/player for the Red Deer Legends, an MSBL World Series staple for the past 20 years. "We originally came to the World Series as the Snowbirds in the 48-over division but then somebody else became the Snowbirds so we switched to the Legends, for no particular reason," explained Hanna. "This year we are competing in the 50+, 55+, 60+, 65+, 70+, and 73+ divisions. Thankfully, I have some reliable friends who do the on-field managing in the younger division. I do all the detail stuff for all of them but I just can't be everywhere during games."

If you do the math, you can see that over 100 players will be representing the Legends this year. Where do you pull the players from? "We have been fortunate over the years to have made a lot of friends whom we have played against and they like the way we approach the game while having a good time. We pull not only from other Canadian provinces, but our teams also have members from over 15 states! We are always keeping our eyes peeled for players. The 73 division was a challenge this year. If you're over 73 and want to play for us in 2023, look me up!" What does a typical summer of baseball entail in Red Deer?

"Surprisingly, Red Deer has a population of about 100,000 and we are able to play in a 30-over league during the summer that is usually between eight and ten teams. Yes, it is a challenge for us older guys but we get the needed reps to stay sharp for playing in summer tournaments and of course the World Series. We just came back from Halifax, Nova Scotia and won in the Oldtimer's division!" Canada does have a history of some occasional cold weather mixed with a bit of snow. An outdoor practice could get a little tricky. How does all that work in Red Deer? "There is an amazing indoor facility under a dome in Red Deer that is over 100,000 square feet and includes complete fields, a lacrosse area, and also six batting cages. We can work out year-round no matter what is happening outdoors." Blair is the proud owner of seven World Series rings and tons of memories along the way. I personally remember 2017, as I was covering some of their games for our website. They won three divisions! I asked Blair to recap 2017 for us.

"That year we took ten teams! We won in the 65+ and 70+ divisions and I think the 55+. That was a pretty crazy year but worth every minute. Our first championship came in 2006 and it never gets old. That still remains my most cherished memory. We had a guy on third representing the winning run in the championship game and our guy bunted and their third baseman threw it away and we won. What a moment!"

What are your baseball roots growing up in Canada and how did you get to this point? "When I was 21 my dad told me about some tryouts for the Alberta Major Baseball League, which include five or six American college players on each team so that they could stay sharp in their offseason. It was a very competitive league. I played in it until I was maybe 35 and then found baseball again at the age of 50. I am 72 now so you could say my baseball resume has two distinct chapters with a little breather in between."
